

"Automobile Face" Scare Vanishes

WASHINGTON.-A little while after automobiles had come into general use, those newspapers which con cern themselves more with fancy than with fact began to worry in their columns about what they termed "the automobile face." They had cartoons showing faces lined and marked, with

These came, the papers said, from the habit of speeding cars. The papers figured that when a motorist gripped the wheel and started ahead at the strip of dusty road that was spinning under the car, there was so much tension that the lines and squint came without the driver's being aware of

The papers have ceased to worry about that now; for such papers do not worry about any particular thing for long. The automobile has established itself, and the human counte arranged for a short trip.

Which is apropos of horseback riding. Here in Washington the automobile is in more or less general use. but it is not crowding the horse as it is doing in Cleveland. Though Roose velt is not here to keep the fashion going, to insist upon it by his ex ample, horseback riding is much in vogue. And a majority of the riders are women. This brings us to the "horseback face." It is the baughtiest face we have seen. When the daughter of a diplomat, say, goes forth—riding astride by the way—she look neither to the right nor to the She poises her bare head erect, and spurs over the hills and far away.

Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth started from Mount Vernon, with a party of friends as her guests, recently. After luncheon they began a 300-mile journey, visiting Manassas, Shenandoah, and other places of historic interest. This announcement was made:

"It has been Mrs. Wadsworth's cus tom for the last six years to ride to her bome in Livingston county, Tennessee. This spring, however, she has T'S up to you," said the suffragists to congress, and it took 50 automobiles and a ton of paper to carry the message to the capitol. Those who expected to see a suffragette demonstration, as often occurs in the halls of the English bouses of parliament, were disappointed.

With banners affoat and finery affuteter, in a procession of taxicabs nearly a mile long, the suffragists moved on Capitol bill and presented to congress 400,000 individual demands for votes for women. The mammoth national petition was divided into little ones, each nicely tied with a bit of yellow ribbon and grouped into little bundles of just the convenient size for a suffragette to carry under her arm.

Senators and representatives from every state received some part of that

Some of the lows delegation were frightened when they heard some members of the house had refused to present the petition. They sent for Senator Dolliver.

Hints For Hostess

Suggestions for Entertainments, and Other Matters of Moment, Edited by Madame Merri

thirtieth—Memorial day. It is worthy made candy to take of recognition by every loyal American souventrs. Itelow I give citizen and should be a day honored the articles she had and to reverently by old and young.

It is, with all its sadness, a day of great thankfulness, masmuch as the gray and blue" are united as one man under the glorious Stars and Stripes.

An occasion of unusual interest is being planned for next Saturday night by a devoted daughter of an old soldier. It is to be a "camp fire" to which six men of the Loyal Legion are bidden as honored guests. Each man is requested to relate a war story of ten minutes' duration from his actual experience, and each is to wear some-thing (if he has anything) that he were during the war. The host is to receive in his uniform (captain's), that was made for him in a southern city nearly half a century ago.

The rooms are to be decorated with flags and pictures of war heroes, and there is to be a big wood blaze in the fireplace. The refreshments are to be hard-tack, coffee, grilled bacco sandwiches, pie, doughnuts, pickles and cheese. War songs are to be sung, and the wives of the six soldier guests are to come dressed as the girls of '61 and serve the refreshments, but this is a surprise, so let us hope none of the men will read "Dame Curtsey" today.

Pipes, cigars and liquid refreshments are to be conveniently near at hand to facilitate the story telling.

Would that every old soldier throughout the length and breadth of our fair land could receive a personal hand-clasp and a smile of recognition on this coming Memorial day.

A Tenth Wedding Anniversary. For the invitations have little squares of sheet tin lettered with paint, inclose in envelopes to fit ex actly. For a table centerplece use a large cake tin with a funnel in the center, in which place the flower chosen, with plenty of trailing vines to radiate over the table. Have candlesticks made of tin with shades of the same material pierced to show the light through like the enes of brass are made. For the side dishes have a tinsmith make little odd dishes and plates, also spoons may be purchased with tin cups just the right size for coffee. Salad may be served in individual gem pans, also the ice cream in tin molds; first, of course, lining both the saind and cream time with waxed paper. For souvenirs have wedding cake put up in little boxes of tin tied with white satin ribbon. Serve this

Here are some jolly good new rid-des that I hope will delight our younger readers:

it is about twenty-one years older.
What is always behind time?—The back of the clock.

What melancholy fact is there about a calendar?—There is no time when its days are not numbered. On what day of the year do women talk the least?—The shortest day.

Why is a washerwoman like Saturday?-Because she brings in the close (clothes) of the week.

Punching eyelet holes by guess may be all very well for the experienced needleworker, but when essayed by the tyro it is apt to result in painfully irregular rents in the fabrics.

There is a new eyelet maker which is provided with a gauge to regulate the size of the holes.

The stilletto tapers from a sharp point to the thickness of a pencil, and by adjusting the gauge, holes of any size may be punched without effort.

N flats and small houses, where cup-board accommodation is limited, the suggestion contained in our sketch will be found very useful, and may be carried out at a small cost. Packing cases can be obtained in every conceivable size and shape, and a good strong one should be selected that will fit comfortably underneath the bed. If the case has a lid that is hinged on, so much the better, but if not, it is an easy matter to obtain a couple of strong fron hinges and fasten them in their places.

The inside of the box should be es tirely lined with paper, pasted to the sides, the bottom and the inside of the lid, and castors screwed on under-neath. To complete this useful article two metal handles are fastened on in front, and handles suitable for the surpose may be obtained from any fronmongers at the same time that the binges and easters are procured. A good sized box will fit comforts-bly under most beds, and will hold a great many clothes and be quite out of sight. When anything is required from the box it is an easy matter to pull the box out by the handles, and being mounted on castors, it may be readily pushed back against into its In the sketch the counterpane is turned up to show the box in position under the bed. The wood can be painted or stained, or a cover may be made for the box. For a girl whose circumstances perhaps compel her to live in a bed-sitting room, this suggestion should be very welcome, as it will enable her to seep a large number of clothes free from dust and dirt. Silent domes are very useful to nail under the box if castors are not available. DIDN'T GET THE SITUATION QUEEN OF ACTRESSES

FARM

SECRETARY WILSON of the depart ment of agriculture has assailed an old-time food notion. We have always been told—at least since food began scientifically to be studied—that hot biscuits were almost indigestible. Wilsor has permitted to come from his office a pamphlet which sets forth that not biscuits will never keep one awake of nights because of a dull, heavy feel-from the little brown loaves as they come bot from the oven. We mind the time, indeed, when they went very well with maple syrup.

There has always been a suspicion that Doctor Wiley, who, Cannon has complained, wants a man to know just what he is putting into his site ach when he goes to take a drink doesn't live up to his pure food no-tions. And now it comes out that Wiley takes his luncheon at a restaurant known as "The Dirty Spoon." We never have eaten there, so that we can't tell about the usual condition of the pewter ware; but it is a fact that the other noon Wiley was acen in this restaurant munching a ham in the stomach.

"As far as now known;" says the builtetin, "the changes ordinarily occurring in good bread as it ages do not affect he digestibility unless it becomes so dry as to be unappetizing."

So that we need no longer run away in the restaurant munching a ham sandwich, washing it down with large gulps of coffee. An accused preacher once said: "Don't do as I do, do as I tell you." Hence the practises of Wiley probably have nothing to do, one way or the other, with where he eats or what. Box for Clothes
